

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

HER MAJESTY'S
POSTMASTER-GENERAL.

THE SMALL EDITION OF THE POST OFFICE LONDON DIRECTORY, 1843.

COMPRISING, AMONGST OTHER INFORMATION,
OFFICIAL DIRECTORY; COMMERCIAL DIRECTORY;
COURT DIRECTORY;
PARLIAMENTARY DIRECTORY;
POSTAGE DIRECTORY; BANKING DIRECTORY;
&c. &c. &c.

THE FORTY-FOURTH ANNUAL PUBLICATION.

LONDON:
PRINTED AND PUBLISHED FOR FREDERIC KELLY, PROPRIETOR,
BY W. KELLY & CO.,
19 & 20, OLD BOSWELL COURT, TEMPLE BAR;
AND SOLD BY ALL BOOKSELLERS.

TWELVE SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE.

P R E F A C E.

Examination of the following pages will prove that the utmost exertions have been used to sustain the reputation of the "Post Office London Directory" in its Edition for 1843. In the Commercial Directory,

or general alphabetical arrangement of Merchants, Bankers, Barristers, Attorneys, Tradesmen, &c., a most important improvement has been introduced; it has been the practice in all Directories until the present to insert the members of firms only at the position of the senior partner; in this the name of each partner with full Christian names appears at its proper alphabetical situation, with a reference to the firm. The takes a very much wider range than heretofore, and furnishes thousands of names not contained in any other book "Court Directory" is a term scarcely descriptive of a plan which equally includes the gentry of the Northern and Southern, as well as those of the Court end and Western suburbs of the Metropolis, extending as it now does southward to Camberwell Green, northward to Stoke Newington, and westward to Notting Hill and vicinity; but it has not been deemed advisable to change, for one more comprehensive, a term to which the subscribers to the Directory have been so long accustomed. The

Court Directory

Parliamentary Directory

has been most carefully corrected to this date, and furnishes a much greater amount of detail on its proper subject than is contained in any other Directory. The

Postage Directory

is, it is believed, arranged with perspicuity equal to its importance; in it are detailed the arrangements having reference to the Registration of Letters, New Plan of West India Packet service, latest rates of postage to Foreign parts, and (at page 991) tables affording in all cases the opportunity of calculating exactly the "Return of Post" from any place in England and Wales. In these tables the names of all Postmasters appear. At pages 1026 and following, is a list of Streets, Squares, &c. &c. of the Metropolis and vicinity, prepared for the purpose of showing the nearest office to each place at which Money Orders may be obtained or cashed. The

Banking Directory

has been compiled from information furnished by all the most eminent Banking Establishments of the Metropolis, The Miscellaneous information is very copious, and includes lists of Libraries, Museums, Picture Galleries, Bazaars, Societies, Clubs, Hospitals, Public Schools, Army and Navy Agents, Banks and Bankers, Hotels and Taverns, Baths, Physicians, &c., Alphabetical Lists of Law and all other Public Offices, with the hours of business at each, Newspapers, with their circulation, Churches and Chapels of the Metropolis, &c. &c. &c.

It must be almost unnecessary to observe upon the importance to residents in, or visitors to, the Metropolis of information such as is contained in the following pages, a very large proportion of which is unique, having been compiled within the last few weeks from the best sources solely for this publication. The has been drawn expressly by Mr. James Wyld, of Charing Cross East. It may be had separately, either there or of the publishers, Old Boswell Court, price five shillings plain, seven shillings and sixpence in case, or half a guinea on roller varnished.

If desired for inspection in London, it may be ordered of any General Post Letter-carrier, who, should the work not be retained, will receive it back without charge. In the event of any difficulty being experienced, its prompt transmission may be ensured by a communication to the Publishers,

The following, copied from the Preface, will convey some idea of the varied contents of this Unequalled Work.—

MORNING HERALD, December 1, 1842.

This is the 44th annual publication of this useful work, and on examination we find it improved even upon the former volumes. The references are more ample, the general arrangements more complete, and in all its details it is more elaborate. Extending over a space of upwards of 1,600 pages, it contains everything necessary for a Directory of the largest commercial city in the world, and moreover includes the Court end, a feature never so carefully illustrated before in a work of this nature. The map which accompanies it embraces a wide circuit, and includes the most important suburbs of London. It is moreover very well executed.

MORNING CHRONICLE, December 2, 1842.

This important and most useful work goes on improving from year to year. In taking up the volume for the present year one would have supposed that there was little room for improvement, from the completeness of its information in all departments. However, in the volume for 1843 we find that several additions have been made. The "Court Directory" is considerably extended so as to include the gentry of the northern and southern suburbs; and what is called the "Conveyance Directory" appears to be much enlarged, and presents a very complete account of the means of travelling. There are other changes, which it is unnecessary to particularise. The work, as we have stated on former occasions, is a most valuable one, and may be considered indispensable in every place where business is transacted.

SUN, December 2, 1842.

We have had frequent occasion to call public attention to the comprehensive plan, and excellent arrangements of this useful work, and in these respects have little new to add. It is satisfactory, however, to state, that Mr. Kelly, the proprietor, not ungrateful for the extensive patronage it has justly acquired, has adopted many new improvements, and by simplifying some of the details, and making numerous additions, has this year rendered it the most complete Directory ever published. Of these we select the following:—The full names of each partner in every firm appear at his proper alphabetical position with a reference to the firm, which likewise appears as before. This will remedy an inconvenience complained of, that unless the leading partner's name was remembered, a firm could not be referred to. A list of the principal hotels, taverns, and commercial inns throughout England and Wales has been compiled, the landlord's name being in each case added. In the "Trades' Directory," some new lists have been added, the longest of which is "Travellers' (Commercial). The "Street Directory" has been much enlarged, and now embraces a much wider extent. The "Court Directory" also takes a much wider range than in the last edition, and includes some thousands of names not contained in any other book. The Proprietor, from his access to official documents, and the assistance liberally afforded by the Post-office authorities, has great advantages, and consequently has been enabled to furnish a vast amount of information, all of which has been collected within the last seventy days, by responsible agents, possessing local knowledge. It is accompanied by an excellent map of London, by Wyld; it extends to 1,558 pages, 112 more than in the edition of last year, and forms altogether a most valuable book of reference.

THE SPECTATOR, December 3, 1842.

This storehouse of business information continues to enlarge. Among its "additions and improvements" are a very considerable extension of the "Court Directory" so as to include other points of the compass besides the West. The North and South of London are now "of the Court courtly," as well as the Western suburbs from Notting Hill to Camberwell. All this is said to be peculiar to the "Post Office Directory;" other professed "Court Guides" are "exclusives," confining themselves to the West-End.

A new map of London is another addition.

RAILWAY MAGAZINE, December 3, 1842.

This is one of the most extraordinary works of the day; year after year the "Post Office Directory" grows upon us, not diminishing in value, as its predecessors did, but each time presenting information more correct and more copious. To specify all, or even any great portion of the improvements in the volume for this year, would be impossible; for every page gives evidence of the care, skill, and enterprise of its conductors. The "Commercial Directory," and "Court Directory," seem very much enlarged, and in addition to the previous references and classification, are accompanied with an engraved Map of London. Among the novelties we may specify the insertion of the name of each partner in a firm at the place where his name would appear were he in business for himself; the addition to the "Court Directory" of the environs north and south of London; the insertion of the names of all Postmasters in the list, showing the return of post; list of Commercial Travellers, &c. &c. We had almost thought that the "Law and Conveyance Directories" had been incapable of improvement, but we were equally surprised and gratified to find that great accessions have been made to them. The "Postage Directory" is not only valuable from its exclusive information, but from the exertions made to keep pace with the improvements of that department and the changes in it. The "Banking Directory" and the "Lists of Public Companies," with the names of their secretaries, the information as to the public offices of all kinds, are carried out to such an extent as to be of the greatest advantage to those engaged in the transaction of public or commercial business. The "Parliamentary Directory" shows an equal advance with the other departments, and indeed no department is behindhand with the progress of events and the march of improvement. To detail the merits of this work, in fact, is to recommend it to public support, which is scarcely necessary, for few can fail to appreciate the energy, skill, and enterprise of its conductors.

WEEKLY DISPATCH, December 4, 1842.

The "Post Office London Directory for 1843" published by Kelly and Co., Old Bowswell-court—is really a most gigantic undertaking, and has been accomplished with more than giant strength; as regards increased utility and general improvement. In noticing the several divisions into which this really national work of reference is classed, it is only necessary to take them seriatim as they appear in the volume; and it is gratifying to state that under every head a marked desire to render the work most perfect is visible. The "Street Directory" embraces a much wider extent than in former editions, and now exhibits, at one view, all the inhabitants of every street; an important addition is made to the "Commercial Directory," by the insertion of the names of all the partners, instead of the senior only, as heretofore has been the custom. The "Trade Directory" is enlarged, for the first time, by a list of Commercial Travellers, which must be a desideratum to all connected with the trade of the provinces; a list of the principal Hotels and Inns, throughout England and Wales, with the names of the present landlords, has been added; and the list of post towns, the names of the several postmasters, have been inserted. The "Conveyance Directory" has been enlarged, and is made as perfect as the ever-changing and improving nature of its subject will allow, and certainly affords, at the present time, a very complete guide to the various modes of travelling now in use. The Court, Official, City, Banking, Postage, and Assurance Directories are equally entitled to encomium for the degree of labour that is manifested in the compilation of each; and it would be doing a great injustice to the enterprising spirit and good faith of the proprietors not to award them the meed of our unqualified recommendation of this, we might literally call it, stupendous work.

JOHN BULL, December 3, 1842.

In the "Post Office London Directory for 1843," there has been effected—that which we had thought impossible, an improvement on the volume of the preceding year. The "Court Directory," which it gives, has been largely increased; and it now includes the residents in the Northern and Southern as well as in the Western suburbs. The "Conveyance Directory" is unique; giving information as to every possible mode of conveyance, by land or by water; and, in particular, every pains appear to have been taken to state the railroad time-tables as correctly as their changing arrangements will allow. A large, clear, admirably executed map of London, engraved by the Messrs. Wyld, completes the work—which ought to be called the "Directory of Directories," or in Eastern phrase, the "Father of Directories."

SUNDAY TIMES, December 11, 1842.

This extraordinary work is at once an Official, a Street, Commercial, Trade, Law, Court, Parliamentary, Postage, City, Conveyance, and Banking Directory. Those accustomed to laborious compilations can alone form a conception of the enormous industry requisite to the production of such a work. Amid a countless variety of matter we find named every inn throughout England and Wales, a list of Commercial Travellers, the names of the post-master of each town, the names of each partner of every firm—(a most important addition)—for instance, Faw, Hamilton, and Faw will be found under the respective letters F and H. "The Court Directory" is the most perfect yet produced. In this extraordinary work we have 1,635 pages of important matter, and on an average 100 names in each page—i. e., 261,600 in all—a prodigious undertaking.

BRITANNIA, December 10, 1842.

Napoleon, to whom we are indebted for some very smart sayings, as well as for some hundred millions of debt, used constantly to exclaim, when his projects were treated as impossible, "Impossible! that word is not French." Every day we are becoming more strongly convinced that it is not English either, when employed to limit the progress of human exertion and industry. Of all springs of action enterprise appears to possess the most expansive power, and to be the most constant and persevering in its movements. No sooner does there seem the slightest possibility that any object of general utility may be accomplished, than it is at once undertaken, and, in nineteen cases out of twenty, successfully prosecuted. Only a few years ago the publication of such a book as this would have been pronounced to be impossible. Think of a volume composed of upwards of 1,600 closely-printed pages, and containing twice or thrice as much matter as Johnson's Dictionary, being completely produced in the space of a few weeks, though every house in London and its suburbs has to be visited to procure the information it embodies, and every public office that can be named has to supply its list of officers, hours, &c. Conversely, as every person connected with a newspaper must be, with the interior of a printing-office, we own to a feeling of surprise at the rapid production of this work, and view it as the greatest marvel typography has yet achieved. As for its contents, we leave those who have more talent for detail than we pretend to describe them. From experience we know that there is no information which a directory can, by any stretch of imagination, be supposed to give that is not readily found here, and found almost in an instant. The general arrangement, the indexes, the classification of names and trades, all aid the work of reference, and help to effect a great saving of time. In many respects the volume is superior to its predecessors; the information is more copious, the details more exact, and the several departments more conveniently arranged. Beside these improvements, we have a large and beautifully-executed map of London, which has been drawn expressly for the work, and, for its size, is perhaps the most comprehensive and exact that has ever been engraved. Altogether, it is one of the most surprising books which the incessant activity of this age has called into being, and one of the most useful that an inventive mind could devise for facilitating the despatch of business and securing accuracy. We give this praise freely, because we are sure it is deserved.

As there are no other Vice-Consuls appointed at the several ports and towns of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, than those above named, all documents issued or authenticated by any other parties, assuming the Vice-Consular functions in those places, will neither be held valid, nor will they be recognised by the Consul General.

Powers of Vice Consuls.

Those Vice-Consuls (but those only), who reside in Seaport towns, are authorised to grant Certificates of Lading and to legalise the Bills of Health, issued by the proper local authority, for vessels, proceeding to any of the Spanish dominions from the Ports where such Vice-Consuls may be located.

N.B.—Captains of vessels arriving at any of the ports of the Spanish dominions, unless provided with a Bill of Health, granted by the proper authority at the port whence they sailed, and legalised by the Spanish Vice-Consul, should there be one, will be subject to a heavy fine, decreed by the Supreme Board of Health.

No Deed or Instrument, or other Documentary evidence is legal in Spain unless executed or passed before a Notary Public of these kingdoms, as a security for being extended to the forms required by the laws of this country; signature of such Notary must be legalised by the Consul-General or Vice-Consul of the place where such Notary resides. The Consul-General, as well as the Vice-Consuls are also authorized to prepare Spanish powers of attorney, as well as some other Spanish documents, of a notarial character, affecting the interests of subjects of Her Catholic Majesty.

Every signature, whether of a public authority or private party, intended to produce legal effect in Spain, is required to be authenticated by a notary public of these kingdoms, whose signature and public qualifications must be legalised by the Consul-General or Vice-Consul, at the place where the document may be signed.

Passports.

No person is allowed to land in any of the Spanish dominions, unless he be provided with a passport; if he be an Englishman, he must get one from the Foreign Office; if of any other nation, he must have one from the Diplomatic Agent for that country; and, in both cases it must be duly authorised by the Spanish Ambassador.

Sweden & Norway.
